Professional Summary

Rohan has over a decade's experience specializing in company and commercial disputes. He has acted for large corporations in shareholders' litigations and represented global businesses in both institutional and ad hoc arbitration across an array of industries including oil & gas, engineering procurement construction (EPC), mining, foreign investment, consumer, services, retail, banking and manufacturing. He regularly appears before the Supreme Court of India, Commercial Bench of High Court of Delhi and Company Law Tribunals. Notably, Rohan played a pivotal role in a recent constitutional reference before the Supreme Court of India, contributing significantly to a crucial legal doctrine pertaining to arbitration.

Rohan holds extensive experience in representing leading corporates before regulatory bodies and has advised on several white-collar investigations and attachment proceedings.

A strong proponent of thought leadership, Rohan has contributed several articles on commercial laws, arbitration, and foreign investment to reputable law journals. He is frequently invited to share his expertise at domestic and international forums, where his deep knowledge of arbitration is widely acknowledged and respected.
